

Nearly half of all households are smart

A mature market – and the foundation for the next stage: Edge AI.

46%

of German households use at least one building-integrated smart living device.

